

'SPIEL ENTRY RECORD BROKEN

ALMOST THIRTY RINKS ENGAGED SOOPING HER UP

Stewart of Wetaskiwin, and Matthews and Brockie of Edmonton are Undefeated Skips in Annual Bouspiel Here. 14 Visiting Rinks and 15 Local Rinks.

The great centre of attraction in Wetaskiwin this week is the curling rink, where the annual bouspiel is in progress. The weather is ideal and the ice is in first class condition. A record number of rinks are competing, there being fourteen rinks of visitors and 15 local rinks contesting for the excellent prizes offered. Seven of the visiting rinks are from Edmonton, two from Camrose, two from Millet, and one each from Daysland, Ponoka and Lacombe.

The grand challenge cup being played for this year is a handsome trophy donated to the Wetaskiwin Curling Club by C. W. Doon of Edmonton, and is greatly admired by all who have seen it. In addition to the great challenge, there are the Loggie, Williamson and Caruthers events, as well as the Consolation and the Grand Aggregate.

ALBERTA RIDINGS ARE CHECKED UP

Edmonton, Jan. 25.—Some rearrangement work in connection with the electoral constituencies through out the province is now being done by the chief election officer, John D. Hunt, and a number of changes in the present system are proposed even though redistribution in a general way is a dead issue.

A strip of territory a half mile wide and six miles long, which was originally in the Stony Plain constituency but was put into the Edmonton constituency when a general redistribution was being mapped out, is now to go back to Stony Plain. It was accidentally left in the Edmonton bounds last year, and appeared as part of both constituencies, with the result that the voters living within it were on two rolls. In voting these forty double-counted had the sixth administered to them so that while there was some confusion in the matter there was no actual duplication of votes. The possibility of further confusion will be removed by restoring the strip to its original constituency, leaving the Edmonton riding continuous with the city limits.

There is also in process a thorough checking up of all the polls in the province for the purpose of making sure that in any given case the whole constituency is comprised in the polls indicated.

Appeal Court Ruling Favors Both Brownlee and Hoadley

The appeal court of Alberta on Monday upheld Premier Brownlee and Hon. Geo. Hoadley in using their prerogatives as ministers of the crown to refrain from submitting themselves to examination in the action brought by the province to recover $5,250 from George P. Smith. The court intimated that a memorandum on its decision would be handed down later.

In giving decision the court said it would not order the ministers to submit to examination, but that subordinate employees could be directed to undergo such examination. As a result the testimony of Richard Andrew Smith, former deputy attorney general will be taken as evidence at the trial.

Prior to the hearing H. H. Parke K.C., made a statement on behalf of George P. Smith in which he stated his client was anxious to have the case tried and disposed of. He asked for the right of examination but if this was refused he would proceed with the case immediately as he desired to clear himself as soon as possible.

At the conclusion of the play on Wednesday night, there were three undefeated skips in the 'spiel', namely, Matthews and Brockie, of Edmonton, and Stewart of Wetaskiwin. The Wetaskiwin skip had a close call in his game with Graham, the judges, after meaning, ruled that to win by about one-eighth of an inch. In the late draw, Matthews won out from Taylor in a see-saw encounter by the low score of 7-6. There were two blank ends.

Eight in Two Events

The eight in the Grand Challenge were reached Wednesday afternoon, with Matthews and Brockie, of Edmonton, Poole of Daysland, and Graham, B.H. Schreffels and Stewart of Wetaskiwin, and Code of Camrose, in the running.

With the evening games the eight were reached in the Loggie competition with McLaren of Ponoka, Mohler of Camrose, Darke, Ramsey and Matthews of Edmonton, and Stewart Wright and Wells of Wetaskiwin, undefeated in this event.

Parke then commenced his argument stressing the main points: that under Alberta rules officials of the crown, such as Premier Brownlee and Hon. George Hoadley were subject to examination unless they appeared and stated that their examination was against the public interest and if the court had no right to examine crown officials the court had the right to stay the action in the matter for a time, and if the officials did not submit then the court had the prerogative to dismiss the action. Mr. Parke quoted a case where under similar circumstances such an action had been dismissed.

A. L. Smith, of Calgary, responding said that the cabinet officials had the right to refuse and argued that they could not be enforced to submit to examination.

Deputy Attorney General, O'Connor, K.C., was associated with Mr. Parke in arguing for Mr. Smith. Chief Justice Harvey presided.

Apeing the Apes of a Shinto Temple

Original Japanese Statuette.

"Hear no evil; speak no evil; see no evil." These three phrases are well-known in modern parlance. They, and a group of gesturing monkeys, are synonymous, the famous original carving being located in a Shinto temple at Nikko, Japan. Many copies of these allegorical triplicates have been made and sold the world over for ornaments, paper weights and book ends. Not the least successful imitations, however, are the three principal officers of the Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of Scotland," which is at present cruising along the world. The photograph above shows them squatted on deck interpreting the teachings of the famous Japanese statues to cruise commander. "See no evil" in the centre is the captain, R. G. Latta, commander of the "Empress of Scotland," at his left is Staff Captain R. N. Stuart, V.C., R.N.R., as "Speak no evil," and at his right First Engineer A. E. Philp, as "Hear no evil," respectively. These efficient officers do very little playing, but now and then they find time to relax and enter into the entertainments and take part in the program on board.

LODGE OF C. O. F. IS RE-ORGANIZED

Two weeks ago a number of members of the Canadian Order of Foresters met in the L.O.O.F. hall and re-organized the local court. A number of candidates were initiated, after which the following officers were elected:

Chief Ranger—Bro. D. MacEachern.
V. C. R.—Bro. A. S. McColgan.
Fin. Sec.—Bro. C. Boyer.
Rec. Sec.—Bro. E. G. Grant.
Chap.—Bro. W. B. Lord.
S.W.—Bro. B. Jackson.
J.W.—Bro. W. VanAlstine.
S.B.—Bro. W. Chapman.
J.B.—Bro. G. Knott.
Com.—Bro. F. Kingzett.

A meeting will be held February 7 in the lodge room over the U.F.A. store when the new officers will be installed. Bro. R. I. Weaver, C.O.F. organizer, who has been very active in re-starting the lodge, will be in attendance. All members of the Canadian Order of Foresters are invited to attend.

COLDSTREAM GUARDS LEAVE FOR SHANGHAI

London, Jan. 29.—The city of London took on a war-time appearance today when the second battalion of the famous Coldstream Guards, the most ancient English regiment, of which King George is colonel in chief, marched through cheering crowds from Wellington barracks to Waterloo station en route for China.

As in the days of the great war, sweethearts and mothers marched with the soldiers to the tune, "Tipperary," "Shanghai," and "The Girl I Left Behind Me." There were one or two incidents when Reds distributed rabbit "stop the war" pamphlets, but the "Tommy's" relatives themselves silenced the demonstrators.

Other military units are being steadily embarked for China in various sections of the country. The war office, for the first time since the world war, has issued a pamphlet, telling the public how to address letters and parcels to the Shanghai defence force.

MERCER ASKS $150,000 IN LIEB ACTION

Edmonton, Jan. 28.—Asking for $150,000 damages, John L. Mercer filed a libel action in the supreme court Thursday against F. C. Pickwell, western representative and correspondent at Winnipeg of "Saturday Night," a weekly newspaper published in Toronto, through A. B. MacDonald, solicitor.

It is alleged that the defendant in the issue of January 15, falsely and maliciously published an article, "How Albertans are Being Bilked," which was meant and understood to mean that Mercer as a company promoter, was dishonest, and the company a false promoter and both concerned in "bilking," namely, cheating Albertans.

MILLET MAN IS WOUNDED IN CHINESE FIGHT

Roger Howes Was Shot in Leg in a Skirmish Near Lu Chow, It Is Learned

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Mrs. M. M. Howes, of Toronto, yesterday received word through the China Inland Mission that her brother-in-law, Roger W. Howes, a native of Millet, Alberta, had been wounded in a skirmish near Lu Chow. According to the information, the bullet passed through the flesh of the left leg and lodged in the flesh of the right leg.

20 MILE EXTENSION OF L. AND N.W. ROAD TO BE REQUESTED

Edmonton, Jan. 28.—Another 20 mile extension to the Lacombe and Northwestern railway is to be asked for. The government railway department has been advised that petitions are now being circulated around Tel-Fordville, praying for a further addition to the line this year that will carry it from the present end of the steel at Breton to a point at least 20 miles nearer Edmonton.

Oriental Population Of Canada Has Been Increasing Rapidly

Victoria, Jan. 29.—British Columbia's oriental population today stands at about $5,000, or eighty-two per cent for every thousand white. It was disclosed in a survey recently conducted by the provincial government all over the province. The report which was made public Thursday shows the oriental population has grown rapidly of late, but the Japanese are outstripping the Chinese and Hindus.

Oriental in British Columbia, according to the report, hold real property assessed at $11,500,000; more than 3,000 asiatics are licensed to carry on business of almost every kind in the province, and attendance of oriental children in public schools has increased at a startling rate, representing 2.3 per cent of the entire school population. These oriental school attendances are increasing at more than double the rate of the increase in total school population. The report further shows that the oriental population concentrated almost entirely in British Columbia is beginning to be lost with the sudden flocking of orientals to the other provinces—a movement which is perhaps the most significant fact revealed by this investigation.

It seems to me an important point has been missed in connection with the Italian situation. Why doesn't someone start a fund to aid the Italian laundry interests, who, I assure, must be starving since Mussolini ordered the entire population to wear black shirts.

ONTARIO GRAIN POOL IS LAUNCHED

Chatham, Ont., Jan. 28.—Launching of Ontario's grain pool, modelled along the lines of the western Canada organizations, took place at a meeting of three hundred local county farmers here Thursday.

The Ontario pool will work in conjunction with the western Canada pools, and when it is fully organized it is hoped that the greater portion of the grain grown from the Ottawa river to the Rocky mountains will be marketed through one central organization in the hands of the producers themselves.

The form of contract adopted by the Ontario pool is very similar to that of the Manitoba Wheat Pool. The grower who signs up agrees to dispose of all his grain through the pool for a term of five years.

FUR CATCH LIGHT IN NORTHERN AREA

Fort Smith, N. W. T.—Furs are going to be higher in price this year. Reports from all over the fur country indicate that the season's catch will be very light, and teamsters taking out furs and various companies from this district state that they are not taking within 50 per cent of the amount they took in 1926.

J. Lacombe has arrived here from Resolution, where he had been on a fur collecting trip. He reports the trail very rough and not much fur any more. So light is the catch that M. DeFoster, who went with him to bring back fur, is remaining at Resolution with the teams in order to get sufficient fur to make up the shipment.—Edmonton Bulletin.

RADIO FANS MUST PAY UP OR FACE FEDERAL ACTION

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—Unlicensed radio set owners are likely to find themselves in court. Despite warnings issued by the department of marine and fisheries at Ottawa, there are still many unlicensed radio receiving sets. Prosecutions are now being ordered from coast to coast and will be vigorously pursued says the department.

ELKS FEAST AND HEAR OF WORKS OF SERVICE CLUB

John Blue, of Edmonton, Delivers Most Interesting Address. Refers to Diamond Jubilee. Presentation Made to P. A. Miquelon, Who Becomes Organizer.

Those who were fortunate enough to attend the banquet given by the Elks' Lodge in their hall on Monday evening will not soon forget the enjoyable time spent by all. At 8:30 the Elks and their lady friends to the number of over one hundred and fifty sat down to a sumptuous dinner served by Curt Smith of the Elks in his most efficient style. The object of the gathering was a get-together of the members to foster a better fraternal spirit, and it is expected that it will be made an annual event.

The banquet was presided over by Bruce D. Howatt, exalted ruler, and among those seated at the head table with him were the guests of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Miquelon, Messrs. Calder, of Lacombe, Davidson, of Ponoka, and Wilson, of Camrose, exalted rulers of their respective lodges, and John Blue, of Edmonton, who was the speaker of the occasion.

After ample justice had been done to the repast, the toastmaster briefly referred to the principles of Elksdom, which are Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity. The lodge was a fraternal society as well as a service club, and so far as it went was not excelled by any order in existence.

Exalted Ruler Davidson brought fraternal greetings from Lodge No. 102, and stated that the Elks of Ponoka were selling shares in a new lodge building.

John Blue was then introduced and took as his subject, "The Work of the Service Club." He referred to the progress made by the social clubs during the past twenty years, especially the work they are doing for the children. The clubs are instrumental in changing business methods and elevating standards of business in the cities as well as in the country. The professions are now overworked and better young men are sent to the universities to train for business careers rather than the professions, preparing to teach, roads, schools, etc., and to handle the wealth of the nation differently from what it was in the middle ages. The clubs now have their international organizations which are bettering business standards in America as well as Europe. No man should be caused to fail during his career. The people of the community should support the work of the schools, the councils, the Elks, the Kiwanis, and other social clubs.

Mr. Blue then referred to the Diamond Jubilee to be celebrated this year. Canada has made more progress during the past 25 years than any other nation in the world. In the last 35 years Canada has had more years of prosperity than any other nation. The progress of Wetaskiwin during the last twenty years has been phenomenal, and his future development will be assisted and guided by the activity of the service clubs.

Brownlee is "Hired Man" of Farmers, Declares Jamieson

Edmonton, Jan. 29.—Charges that Premier Brownlee was only the "hired man" of the farmers of the province and that he would go out the minute he refused to take orders from the U.F.A. caucus were made by Col. P. C. Jamieson, K.C., addressing the annual meeting of the Edmonton Conservative association in the public library on Friday night. Col. C. V. Weaver, M.L.A., acted as chairman, and new officers were elected at the close of the meeting.

Mr. Jamieson, who for the strong support given him when he contested the federal riding of West Edmonton at the last Dominion election, Col. Jamieson declared the "distressing situation" now existing in the province, by which a "water tight" farm organization, made rougher over a majority of the other votes.

During the recent U.F.A. convention, he added, a prominent Farmer member told him that ex-Premier Greenfield had been compelled to resign because he had advocated that a share of the liquor profits be given to the towns and cities. Mr. Green-

If the people of the community are permeated with the spirit of the social clubs, there will be better cities and better rural communities, better school boards, better "3As, better Kiwanians and better citizens.

The addresses were interspersed with community singing, and the several selections on the Hawaiian guitar by Mr. Cooper of Edmonton, and the vocal solos by Stewart Campbell were greatly enjoyed.

Following the address of Mr. Blue, Mr. Howatt presented Mr. Miquelon, who leaves shortly to accept a position as organizer of Elks' lodges for all of Canada, with a club bag as a token of respect from his co-workers and friends in Wetaskiwin, and Mrs. Miquelon was presented with a lovely bouquet of roses by Little Miss Helen Burkholder, who was attired in a very attractive costume of lodge colors.

BURNS' NIGHT AT ST. ANDREW'S

On Friday last week a large and representative audience assembled in St. Andrew's church to do honor to the immortal memory of Scotland's premier bard. The evening's proceedings took the form of a lecture on the life, time and poetical works of Robert Burns. The lecture, delivered by Professor Adams of the University of Alberta, was pleasantly interspersed by readings and songs. Mr. R. Steel, of Edmonton, rendered several vocal numbers while Mrs. Steel accompanied at the piano. Professor Adams read two choice selections from the works of the playman poet "The Cotter's Saturday Night," and "Tam O'Shanter."

The speaker pointed out that, like Sir Walter Scott, Burns owed much to a capable and gifted mother. He also owed a great deal to his home training from which he derived a thorough knowledge of all times, the bible. Contrary to the statements of many critics, Burns was a man of deepest integrity and at heart religious. It was this trait of character combined with a moral independence, a rich sense of humor and a romantic tendency, that found expression in all his songs and poems.

In conclusion, Professor Adams said that Burns had not won for himself a warm place not only in the hearts of his fellow countrymen but in the hearts of many who were not Scotchmen, because he was a really great human.

A schoolboy's essay: "A goat is about as big as a sheep if it's shearing enough." A female goat is called a battress, a little goat is called a gaiter. Goats are very useful for eating up things. A goat will eat up more things than any animal that ain't a goat. My father has a goat once. My father is an awful good man. Everything he does is so. That is all I know about goats.

The Greatest Mystery Story Ever Written

BEAU GESTE

By PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER WREN

"Ah!" I said impulsively. "What do you think of it?"
"I never think," said Guantalo, with a malevolent smile. "I yawned and stretched and affected to settle myself to slumber."

"How would you and your brother
like to be pigs if I could find two or three other pigs to join the big pot, and the one or two blagish pigs?" he enquired, nudging me.

I belied my statement that I never thought, and did some rapid thinking.

Had it been arranged that he should sound me as soon as Schwartz had hinted at the assassination of Lejaune?
Was it his task to find out whether my name was to be put on the "butchers" list or the "pigs" list? Were all those who did not wholeheartedly join the "butchers" to be shot in their beds on the night of the mutiny?

Or again, was the rogue trying to find out which was likely to be the stronger party, and did he intend to betray his friends to the non-commissioned officers, if he thought them
likely to win?

"How would we like to become pigs you say?" I temporized. "I should hate to be butchered—shouldn't you?"

"Very much," he replied. "But do you know, I have heard of pigs attacking men. Taking them unawares and eating them up."

"I should hate to be eaten by a pig, shouldn't you?" I observed.

"Very much," he agreed again. "One does not want to be slaughtered by butchers nor eaten by pigs."

"Not if one is a wise pig—forwarded and forewarned—who attacks the butchers, taking them unawares," he replied.

"Has the big pig got his eye on the butchers?" I asked.

"No," he replied, "nor have the big fish pigs."

"And are you going to open the eyes of the blind pigs?" I enquired.

"I don't know," answered Guantalo.
And I had a very strong conviction that he was speaking the truth, for there was a ring of genuine doubt and puzzlement in his voice. At any rate, if he was lying when he said
it, he was lying extraordinarily well.

No—he did not know what to do.
He decided, and he was simply trying to find out where his private interests lay. Would it pay him better to stand in with his friends and assist in the mutiny, and the murder of Lejaune
and the non-commissioned officers?
Or would he do better for himself if he betrayed his friends, warned his superiors, and assisted them to defeat
the mutineers?

That he was one of the ringleaders
of the plot was obvious, since he was the liaison friend of Colano, Goltz, Vogel, and the rest of Schwartz's band, and had always been one of the circle in their recent confabulations and mutterings together.

I followed the plan of trying to put myself in Guantalo's place, and to think with his mind.

On the one hand, if I were Guantalo,
I should see great dangers attendant on the mutiny. If it failed, and if it succeeded, it could only be the prelude to a terrible march into the desert.

"You won't warn Lejaune until you have told Schwartz you are going to do so, of course," he asked, and I had seen his eyes light up as I announced the probability of defying Schwartz. That seemed to suit him.

"No, I won't," I assured him. "Nether will my brother. Provided, of course, that nothing will be done tonight? No mutinying, I mean."

"Oh, no," he said. "They're not ready yet. A few haven't joined.
Schwartz would like to get everybody
of course; but failing that, he wants to keep exactly who is to be killed before they start. It will prevent any fortunate accidents. Also, they want the full moon."

"Well, I shall decide tonight," I
said.

The first thing to do now was to find Michael and decide as to what line we were going to take.

He was on sentry go, and I must wait.

Meantime, I might find St. Andre,
Maris, Glack and one or two others
who were fundamentally decent honest men, and less likely than some of the rest to be driven by the blind hordes of Lejaune, or the dominance of Schwartz, into numerous folly
that was also suicidal.

St. Andre was lying on his cot in the barrack room. He looked at me as I entered. Taking my belt and a polishing rag, I strolled in the direction of his bed, and came to a halt near him, huddling industriously.

"Are you fond of pork, mon ami," I enquired softly, without looking away from my work.

"I am something of a cochon about it," he replied in a low voice, and added, "Anyhow, I would rather be that than a butcher."

So he had been approached too.
"Follow me outside when I go," I
said.

A few minutes later he found me in the courtyard, and I learned that Schwartz had sounded him that day;
told him that he must choose between being a pig or a butcher; and had given him a couple of days in which to make up his mind. Schwartz had concluded by informing St. Andre that all who were not for him would be treated as being against him, and that eighty per cent of the men had willingly taken the oath to follow him and to obey him absolutely.

"What are you going to do, St.
Andre?" I asked.

He went on to say that he had thought of nothing else from the moment he had heard of the plot, and that he had come to the conclusion that he would join with Michael and me to do what seemed the best thing.

"You see, my friend," he concluded,
"one, of course, cannot join in with these poor madmen—one has been an officer and a gentleman. Even if one had sunk so low as to do such a thing,
and one could escape one's conscience,
by saying that Lejaune deserves death,
the fact remains that these lunatics can but step from the frying-pan into the fire."

"Exactly," I agreed.

"No, I knew you would not join them," said St. Andre, seizing my hand and I told myself I should do just what for and your brother did."

"Well—I'll talk it over with him as soon as he comes off duty and we will let you know what we decide," I said, but certainly it will not be to join them.

"Meanwhile," I added, "you get hold of Maris, Glack, Dobroff, Marley, Hume and Corlier. If you get a chance. They are among the least mad in this lunatic asylum."

"Yes," agreed St. Andre. "If we can form a party of our own, we may be able to save the situation."

I waited for Michael, sitting on a native bed, of string plaited across a wooden frame that stood by the courtyard wall near the guard-room.

When Michael was relieved, I followed him as he went into the barrack-room to put his rifle in the rack
and throw off his kit.

"I'll be sitting on the anagath," I said. "More developments."

When he joined me, I told him what Guantalo had said, and I added my own views on the situation, together with those of St. Andre.

"Position this, I think," he said,
when I had finished. "Schwartz and his band of lunatics proposing to murder Lejaune and anyone who stands by him. Guantalo has given the show away to Corporal Beldini because he thinks the mutiny is too risky. Beldini wants to join the mutineers if they're likely to be successful—but not otherwise. If we join the mutineers, Beldini and Co. will join too,
with the idea of killing me and robbing me in the desert and getting to Morocco with the Cullinan-Kohlnor.

Or to put it more truly, Beldini would get the 'Co.' to do the murdering and stealing, and then kill or rob whichever of his gang brought it off. If we refuse to join the murderers, Beldini's plan would then be to get Guantalo to murder me in my bed, and place

the Great Diamond from my belt, aflaming with gold, Beldini would use in ever of his gang brought it off. If we

DYSPEPSIA Made Her Miserable After Every Meal

Mrs. H. A. Moore, Vernon, Ont., writes: "For quite some time I had suffered from dyspepsia, and after each meal was most miserable. Acting

Brampton Serena's Volunteer, one of the best sons of Jersey Volunteer, now available to Wetaskiwin Breeders

To give you a chance to secure a few calves from this great sire, I will place him on service for a short time.

He is by Jersey Volunteer, a bull that made a great reputation on the continent as a sire of outstanding dairy cows with beautiful udders. He was tested with his progeny, and he served for the Peer cap at the Royal Show in 1922. He is also the sire of eighteen tested cows, including Le Rondie's Jessie, 738 pounds of butter. This indicates his character as a sire.

Jersey Volunteer's dam, Fern's Lady Daisy, is a Certificate of Merit granddaughter of Oxford Sultan of Oaklands

a bull that was also a progeny Prize winner and the sire of 35 tested cows and five producing sons. She is also a granddaughter of the great breeding cow, Raleigh's Daisy Belle, the dam of Golden Fern's S.A., a cow that has made an outstanding contribution to the progress of the breed.

From these facts, it can be seen that he is exceptionally well bred, and would be a distinct addition to the service sires in any progressive herd.

If you are interested in an outstanding breeding bull come and see him and his daughters, or send for his extended pedigree.

Certainly
Improving

We are getting wiser and wiser every day—people do not want anything for nothing. It seems to be against the laws of nature. In these days of better education people get down and figure that a genuine article of hardware, furniture, clothing, foodstuff, or printing, etc. require to be moulded into shape by labor and expensive machinery. They know that the production cannot keep up unless the men are remunerated for their toil and the machinery is paid for.

Power and fewer arguments are noticed between the buyer and seller of reputable lines of goods. They know the prices and realize that they are compatible with the quality. In some cases transit charges affect the price to some extent, while demand is the greatest influence of price. A commodity which is selling regularly has a narrow margin of profit. The other hand an article or commodity which does not sell readily cannot be handled on as close a margin because it must be paid for and housed by the seller, all incurring expense. All this is a service and an accommodation of our local retailers to the public, for do not our merchants carry thousands of thousands of dollars worth of slow-moving commodities from which they have little or no hope of ever reaping a read count more than its total cost to them. They could very easily cut their stocks down 50 per cent, and make nearly twice the profit for half the investment. Why don't they—because they want to render a service to the community—they continue to plug along taking the ups and downs as they come.

It is noticeable how the general public is becoming more acquainted with the local stores and through the medium of advertising find that they can save their pennies twice over by inspecting local stocks of merchandise first. Also besides the saving there springs up between the buyer and seller a spirit of friendship and a community-building instinct which is inestimable in dollars or cents. And after all we are all here for the same purpose to live to the betterment of mankind and to go through our daily lives with enjoyment, and we can go a great deal further with a greater ease if we extend the hand of fellowship to our brothers and if we do we will find a helping hand stretched to meet us.

"What would be the reaction upon the cost of living if advertising stopped and its beneficent force ceased?" This question, asked by the Fourth Estate, provides much food for rumination.

It is an interesting conjecture. Ad-

Was Very Nervous

Could Not Sleep

Mrs. M. A. Gagnon, Dunstville, Alta., writes: "I am sending you this letter to let you know the good I have found in your medicine."

Some time ago I was very nervous, could not sleep at night, often had dizzy spells and palpitation of the heart, and was so run down I could not do my housework, but just have everything and sit down.

I spent a lot of money using medicine from the doctor, but it did not do me any good.

At last a friend told me to use and after using a couple of boxes I was not the same woman. I began to feel so much better, and after a few more boxes I was in perfect health. I always recommend them to all those I know who are suffering from heart trouble."

Price 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct at special price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

vertising largely takes the place of personal selling effort, which is very much more expensive.

A California editor, cogitating on the possibility of a cessation of advertising, says:

"It would mean that our railroad trains would be thronged with salesmen whose household mail would carry fewer orders, all of smaller volume than now."

"Distribution upon the present scale would be impossible. Manufacturing would fall off, with a consequent decrease in labor demand. Jobbers would find their business proportionately limited. Retailers would make fewer and fewer turnover. Prices of all commodities would soar. Prices of raw materials would rise, and anti-war prices seem low by comparison."

helping to suppress the mutiny, hoping that, in the scrap, I might get down, and he could rob my corpse. He could do more than hope it. He could arrange it."

"On the other hand," said I, "I don't mind saying nothing about the plot, and Guentano may be wondering whether to let the mutiny go on, or whether to warn his old pal Beldin and give the show away."

"Quite so," agreed Michael. "We're absolutely in the dark in dealing with this like Guentano. We can only go on probabilities, and on the whole, the swiftest seemed to be egging you on to join the plot. Well, that means he has some definite personal interest in our joining it. Obviously if he hadn't, he wouldn't care a damn if I joined it or not."

"What's to be done, Beau?" I asked.

ARTICLE No. 11

There are certain definite requirements of bidding that should be complied with at all times, if the auction is to be a success. These requirements are more or less arbitrary and vary with the position of the bidder. For example, if you have five hearts to the ace, king, it is a sound heart bid if you are dealer; but if three hearts have passed, it is not a sound bid on the second round. The real reason for these so-called conventions of bidding is due to the fact that all sound bidding is part of a harmonious whole. Each bid, if it is sound, should consider not only the bid itself, but also its effect upon and interpretation by one's partner. If it tells him the truth, it is a sound bid, but if it deceives him, it is a bad bid. It is the duty of the bidder to be honest and to let his partner know what he has. Whenever you make a bid, think not only of your own cards but also of your partner and what he may do after he hears your bid. You should also consider your own course of action if the bid is not successful. If you are overbid by your partner, you should be able to decide whether to bid again or to pass. POPULAR BRIDE

GIVEN SHOWERS

Miss Rose Schreffels held a china shower in honor of Miss Evelyn Reed, a bride of this week, at her home on Friday evening, when eighteen of her girl friends assembled and held a very enjoyable evening. The home was artistically decorated with yellow and white, and the honored guest was dressed in the same colors and wore a gold crown. Part of the evening was spent in dressing clothes and dolls, and the prizes awarded to Miss Evelyn Svensen, while the consolation was given to Miss Hinchberger. Great interest was created when Dorene Snyder wheeled a carriage of presents into the room, and they were opened by the recipient.

During the evening a cash bank was passed among the guests and each contributed a nickel to form the nucleus of a bank account. A dainty lunch was served.

On Wednesday evening of last week about twenty-five young people of Wetaskiwin drove out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Reed, where they honored their daughter, Evelyn, with a miscellaneous shower. It was a real surprise, but the visitors were heartily welcomed, and a delightful evening was spent. Games of various kinds were played, and one of the features of the evening was the entertainment was a mock marriage. The bride-to-be was the recipient of a very large number of handsome and useful articles, and the greatest interest was caused when the parcels were opened and the articles inspected. A dainty lunch was served and the visitors left in the wee small hours for their homes in the city, and will remember the pleasant evening spent in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Reed.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Friday, January 28, a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. L. Lykin in remembrance of her birthday. There were thirty of her friends who met at her home, wishing her many happy returns of the day. The ladies gave her a towel shower and the men an electric iron and Mr. C. Lykin a mantle clock. Before lunch Mr. Lykin gave a very interesting speech which was appreciated by all. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Lykin and Mrs. V. Hiltunen of Canora.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIBLE CLASS

On Monday evening of last week, the Young People's Bible class, which meets Sunday afternoons in the W.I. rooms, met in the Sunday school rooms of the United church for a social evening. There were 38 present and a very enjoyable evening was spent in contests, music, songs, etc. until all were heartily happy, when the crowning feature of the evening appeared in the serving of a very substantial lunch, which all appeared to appreciate. This class, although recently organized with 16 members, now is more than doubled and looking forward to increased membership and many good times.

On Sunday afternoon, this class were favored with the presence of Mr. Harcourt, a missionary from India, who gave a very interesting and instructive address, picturing the homes and home life of the common people in India, who have come under the influence of the Christian religion. This was the more enjoyed because so little has been known of the life of these people who are with us and who, in spite of peculiar conditions, have remained so loyal.

WHEAT POOL NOTES

J. Jesse Strang, a well known farmer of the Claresholm district, was elected a director by the delegates from that district at a meeting held in the wheat pool office. Mr. Strang succeeds Hon. O. L. McPherson, who resigned when taking over the provincial portfolio of public works. The new director homesteaded 14 miles east of Claresholm in 1904. He now farms two sections of land there. Present wheat pool contracts expire with the handling of the 1927 crop, and new contracts are being prepared for another sign-up. Saskatchewan and Manitoba are making similar plans. The present contract in use in Manitoba runs for five years from the date of signing. In Alberta and Saskatchewan all contracts expire at the same time.

Most of the Alberta wheat pool directors are making their customary annual rounds of their districts addressing meetings. These meetings are principally for pool members, but non-pool farmers and citizens in other walks of life are urged to be present. These meetings afford an excellent opportunity to learn about the operations of the pool.

The Alberta wheat pool has approached the newly appointed Vancouver harbor board with the object of renewing negotiations for a lease of Dominion government elevator terminal No. 1 at Vancouver. The chairman of the board has gone to Ottawa and a decision will probably be reached on his return to the coast.

R. A. MacPherson, pool director for North Calgary, has been appointed representative on the central selling agency of the pools, taking the place of Hon. O. L. McPherson, resigned. The Alberta pool has three representatives on the central agency, namely H. W. Wood, C. Jensen, and R. A. MacPherson.

MUSICAL EXAMS WILL BE HELD EARLY THIS YEAR

Calgary, Jan. 29.—That the music examinations to be conducted by the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and the College of Music may be earlier this year, than they were last, is the content of an announcement made by Mrs. H. H. Sharples, the Alberta provincial secretary of the board. Mrs. Sharples stated that according to word received from the the board office in London, the examiner may arrive in Lethbridge about May 28, and that he will be in Calgary about June 4.

The second examiner will go to Edmonton next, arriving about June 9. From Edmonton he will go to North Battleford about June 22. These dates are not final.

ONE MOTHER ASKS BUT WHICH?
Butterflies may flit about in January and flippers may climb telephone poles but these things would be no more unusual than a coincidence reported the Star this week which two men both have the from New Zealand, and both have mothers living there, one of whom is anxious to get in touch with her son. They are Walter Thomas, employed at the Flin Flon mines and Walter Thomas employed in the C.N.R. yards here.

Last week Mayor John Hair received a communication from New Zealand stating that a Mrs. Thomas was anxious to locate her son. Walter Thomas, who was last heard of in Saskatchewan. An item to this effect was published in the Star. The next day the Mayor received word that a Walter Thomas formerly of New Zealand was working at the pay.

Flin Flon mines. Wednesday, the Walter Thomas here phoned up to say he might be the man about whom the inquires were made.—Saskatoon Phoenix.

A butcher, walking one day, saw the sign, "Milk from contented cows." It gave him an idea. The following day this sign appeared in the window of his shop. "Sausages from hogs that died happy."
